Get into the spirit

Don't let the weeks between Halloween and New Year's become a blur. We love these ideas for making memories despite the holi-daze

“Halloween is huge for kids, so go all out! Match costumes to treat buckets, then embellish with safe, natural makeup and fun accessories.”

Grateful table toppers

These decorations, from Stephanie Frazier Grimm of Couture Parties in Newport, RI (coutureparties.com), are a cute way to get your kids thinking about gratitude.

WHAT YOU NEED

- scissors
- orange, red, and yellow paper
- pen
- clear-drying craft glue
- googly eyes
- pom-poms
- pinecones

HOW TO MAKE IT

- 1 Cut strips of paper about 1" x 3". Have the children pick three things they're grateful for and write one on each color strip.
- 2 Cut narrow diamond shapes out of the orange paper; fold in half to make beaks.
- 3 Glue eyes and beaks onto pom-poms.
- 4 Lay pinecones on their sides and insert strips of paper into the bottom ends so you can read what's written on them.
- 5 Glue pom-poms onto tops of pinecones, near the pointed tips, so you have turkeys with "feathered" tails.

"Thanksgiving is all about togetherness, the family gathering. These items help make the day easy, fun, and memorable for all."
